

2024/2025 NSSP AMBASSADOR PROGRAM

HISTORY

Since 2008, the National Rifle Association of America (NRA) has hosted its own “National Youth Shooting Sports Ambassador” program with the sole purpose of promoting shooting sports among our younger generations. Beginning in 2009, the NRA formed partnerships with other cooperative organizations to provide Ambassadors to represent both the NRA and their parent organizations on a national level for the program. Past organizations included Royal Rangers, USA Shooting, National High School Rodeo Association, Boy Scouts of America (BSA), BSA Venturing, and United States Marine Core JROTC. Through 2018, the NRA and its partnered organizations worked diligently in the shooting sports industry. As of 2019, the NRA updated its requirements to open participation in the program to be more all-encompassing of other youth programs and organizations. With this, applicants are now directly accepted through the NRA versus in the past where each partnered organization picked its own Ambassador individually.

Considering these recent changes and Royal Rangers no longer having an official part in the NRA’s updated program, the NSSP has been inspired to use this opportunity and with that is launching this brand-new Ambassador program of our own. We are very excited to see what God has in store for this new program. It is our prayer that God would use it to continually further the mission of Royal Rangers to mentor the next generation of Christlike men as well as to aid in inspiring Christlike sportsmen.

DESCRIPTION

The primary purpose for this program is to serve as a launching pad for any young man selected to be given opportunities to further develop valuable life skills, create relationships to open up possible career opportunities, promote the National Shooting Sports Program of Royal Rangers with all it incorporates, and most importantly create opportunities for ministry to all with whom he interacts.

The NSSP Ambassador will play the role of a National Level Representative for the NSSP and Royal Rangers promoting shooting sports, the NSSP within and outside of Royal Rangers, and use/teach what an amazing and valuable tool shooting sports is to create relationships and connections for specifically for ministry and spreading the gospel.

He will be able to exercise and further develop communication skills through significant amounts of public speaking whether through interviews, devotions/sermons, product reviews, and writing various types of materials/articles. He’ll learn and use networking skills to create/grow business relationships with company representatives for the NSSP and thus possibly open doors for employment opportunities for the said Ambassador.
